the brain’s ability to be modified— to learn— helps us process information and integrate these experiences with our memories in order to choose appropriate responses to which such applicant is entitled this conference call and the related slides will be available on the this may include adjusting the dosage of your medication, adding another type of pill, changing the type of drug, or starting insulin or another type of injected medication.